

October 31, 1918

SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

The public schools will open Monday after being closed three weeks.

There will be church services in the churches next Sunday. While the epidemic of Influenza was quite prevalent in and about Manning, it seems to have run its course and not many new cases are expected.

While the board has no authority to compel vaccination for the Influenza, some of the members are of the opinion that the same will help here as it has in other places, and it is left to the parents to have their children vaccinated.

December 18, 1918

SCHOOL BEGINS MONDAY

After an enforced closing of the Manning public schools for two months school will open again next Monday, December 30. It is hoped that there will be no more enforced closing of the school here, and that the pupils will be able to overcome the loss already caused by the prevalence of the Influenza. Every pupil should be in his seat next Monday and ready to do extra heavy school work.